

Do you employ advanced practitioners?

If so, did you know that you are required to adopt this assessment tool to ensure your practitioners are governed and you have assurance of their practice for CQC inspections? Also, you are required to have started this to access funding for future trainee ACPs.

North East and Yorkshire Faculty for Advancing Practice and H&NY Primary Care Workforce & Training Hub would like to invite you to a Governance Maturity matrix tool implementation workshop. This event will explain what you need to know, how to implement this into practice and we will work with you to start completing this live matrix with you to take back to practice.

This workshop will be held on:

Thursday 8th February 9.30-12.00
at the University of York

Meet the session team :-

Sarah Fisher qualified as a nurse with a BSc in Nursing studies followed by an MSc in Advanced Professional practice and has worked across various acute specialities including general surgery, gynaecology and a nurse led medical unit. She has spent the last 20 years working in primary care covering NHS Direct, GP out of hours, walk in centres and latterly GP Practice. Sarah is a Queens Nurse and has won awards for leadership in primary care including Nursing in Practice – Nurse of the Year for her contribution to primary care services. Sarah joined the South Yorkshire Faculty of Advanced Practice in 2020 as the primary care lead, being becoming Professional Lead in 2021.

James Lyell initially qualified as a Physiotherapist from the University of Bradford in 2010. Quickly specialising in Neurology, James worked in the South of England before moving to Hull in 2015, working in Neurosurgery before managing the Stroke community services in East Riding. In February 2018, after starting his Advanced Clinical Practice Masters at the University of York, James joined the Haxby Group, becoming an important part of the rapidly emerging Advanced Clinical Practitioner team in the city. After qualifying as an Advanced Clinical Practitioner, James became the first Physiotherapy ACP Partner in England, joining the Haxby Group Partnership as a Partner in April 2021. As well as Operational lead for Advanced Practice across the Haxby Group, James is also one of the corporate directors for Haxby Group Training. Working closely with the team, James uses his clinical knowledge, natural drive and enthusiasm to help offer the highest quality medical training for the region, launching training projects including the recently commissioned competency framework for qualified Advanced Clinical Practitioner's and Physician Associates.
