Patient story – Georgia's experience of cancer as a teenager. Persistent symptoms, diagnosis and listening to young people.

Georgia Kennedy joined our GPs to share her experience of being diagnosed with Hodgkin lymphoma as a teenager. They discuss the challenges of recognising cancer in young people, reflecting on how Georgia's early symptoms were missed due to a lack of continuity of care and proactive questioning. This episode aims to improve GP awareness of cancer in teenagers and highlight the need for tailored communication styles for younger patients. Listen now.
